An interesting Discussion.
General Hagerman and J. F. Cookes General Hagerman and J. F. Cookes had an interesting discussion on the battle between David and Golish this afternoon at Gus Lewis' saloon. General Hagerman thought Dave, with his sting, took an undue advantage of Golish, while Cookes maintained that everything was fair in war. The General a practical ability if so well known that it is usseen to say that he gument with General Hagerman you have to think quick and fast or be will most certainly annihilate you. George Wilson was the audience.

BELL TONGUE SYRUP, AN ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY OF An Inestimable Benefit Mankind.

CREAT SOUTH AMERICAN PA ACEA.

UNCLE BEN JOWAS born in Boston in 1800. Being a botanist, he effected many wonderfu, circe with roots and herbs. In 1816 he went to South America to attay botany, and while there accidentally made his great discover. The heatrie of this country were quite familiar with it, and had always supposed it to be a poisonous herb, which they need for the seels purpose of keeping enakes away from their tenis or houses. This they did by laying it in a circle about the same at a proper distance off. This herb, Uncle Jo, as well as the natives, considered a very obnoxious and poisonous one, and when grean sad fresh it threw off a very distantent and requisive odor. The herb, grows shout two feet high, and about eight inches of othe house part of its stalk is leafless, and this part lops over and hangs downward perpendicularly, and from the crack seek being send in licensees in size, and on the end of the same is a large, burly-looking hall, which stalk and ball, in this hanging position, looks mucleally hits the tongue of a hell. Hence Uncle Jo pamed it the Bell Tongue Plant. In Sooth America his herb is only found in the extreme interfer of the country, and the natives there call the first only found in the extreme interfer of the country, and the natives there call the first only found in the extreme interfer of the country, and the natives there call the figures.
